Problem Summary: Site is a heavily guarded compound of structures. Area is dry and parched and is located in an isolated area, i.e., not in a city - more open country. It is hot, almost tropical, and there is a very dusty, dirty taste. There are many people at the site - dark skinned, male and female. Some are very frightened, some are very angry. There is much confusion. The structures at the site are light in color, rough in texture and are built low to the ground. They are heavily barricaded. There is a sound of rumbling in the background. Some of the people at the site are in pain. The most heavily guarded structure is a combination of living quarters, storage space for what is peculiar to be large wooden crates, food supplies and other equipment. This building also contains a large, open building, smoky room cluttered with debris. This room is also heavily guarded, with only a few people. However, these people are the untrustworthy. They are dangerous, treacherous and cunning. They are concerned only with their own positions, not consequences.
